Pacific does not offer recommendations to retail investors. You will make the ultimate decision regarding the purchase or sale of investments in your brokerage account. Questions to consider:

- Given my financial situation, should I choose a brokerage service? Why or why not?
- How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
- What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education, and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

Fees, Costs, Conflicts and Standard of Conduct

What fees will I pay?

It is important for you, the retail investor, to understand the principal fees and costs you will incur for your brokerage services, including how frequently they are assessed and the conflict of interest they create. We do not provide recommendations. The way we make money creates conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the services, we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means."

- Placement services: We are compensated by the issuer, generally, based on a percentage of the investment amount raised. You will not pay any fees to us. However, you should carefully review the prospectuses for the placements you invest in, to ensure that you understand any fees you may pay.
- Brokerage accounts: Pacific charges you a commission for each transaction, either buying or selling stocks, exchange-traded funds or options. This means you are charged more when there are more trades in your account. Therefore, we may have an incentive to encourage you to engage more transactions.

- Underwritings: We typically receive compensation based on the difference between the price paid by us for the securities and the price that the securities are offered to investors (gross spread) in any equity offering.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying. For more information regarding the fees and conflicts, please visit our website at <http://pcsecurities.us/files/BI.pdf>

Questions to consider:

- Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when providing recommendations as my broker-dealer? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

Pacific and its financial professionals will act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, conflicts are created when business activities occur. For example, Pacific has incentive that you buy / sell securities more frequently as more compensation will be earned. As revenue sharing, Pacific may earn additional revenue offered through its clearing firm when customer purchase stocks on margin or credit balance from customer accounts.

As for private placements, conflict of interest may be created when:

- We receive placement fees from the issuers of the private placements we recommend, which are generally based upon the amount of interests subscribed for by investors. Thus, Pacific's recommendations of such investments may be influenced by its desire to obtain these fees.
- We offer investments in a limited number of private placements. There may be other private placements that we do not offer that better suit your needs.

Questions to consider:

- How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our financial professional receives a percentage of the fee revenue he or she generates for the Firm. The percentage of commission paid to our professionals may increase if he or she generate over certain revenue thresholds, therefore, your financial professional has incentive to encourage you to buy and sell securities more frequently.
