BrokerCheck reports for brokerage firms include information on a firm's profile, history, and operations, as well as many of the same disclosure events mentioned above.
- Please note that the information contained in a BrokerCheck report may include pending actions or allegations that may be contested, unresolved or unproven. In the end, these actions or allegations may be resolved in favor of the broker or brokerage firm, or concluded through a negotiated settlement with no admission or finding of wrongdoing.

- The information contained in BrokerCheck comes from FINRA's Central Registration Depository, or CRD® and is a combination of:

- Generally, active brokerage firms and brokers are required to update their professional and disciplinary information in CRD within 30 days. Under most circumstances, information reported by brokerage firms, brokers and regulators is available in BrokerCheck the next business day.

- What if I want to check the background of an investment adviser firm or investment adviser representative?

- To check the background of an investment adviser firm or representative, you can search for the firm or individual in BrokerCheck. If your search is successful, click on the link provided to view the available licensing and registration information in the SEC's Investment Adviser Public Disclosure (IAPD) website at <https://www.adviserinfo.sec.gov>. - Are there other resources I can use to check the background of investment professionals?

Broker Statement	I deny any allegations of wrongdoing in this complaint. When I recommended this investment to my customers in 2014, we had lengthy conversations during which I explained both the risks and the benefits of the investment. Following those discussions, we decided that a small investment fit within their overall portfolio and was appropriate given their objectives and risk tolerance. I was not named as a respondent in this matter, and I understand that LPL made a business decision to settle the case for a nominal amount to avoid the costs of litigation. I was not asked to, and did not, contribute any money toward the settlement amount.
