BrokerCheck reports for brokerage firms include information on a firm's profile, history, and operations, as well as many of the same disclosure events mentioned above.
- Please note that the information contained in a BrokerCheck report may include pending actions or allegations that may be contested, unresolved or unproven. In the end, these actions or allegations may be resolved in favor of the broker or brokerage firm, or concluded through a negotiated settlement with no admission or finding of wrongdoing.

- Where did this information come from?

- The information contained in BrokerCheck comes from FINRA's Central Registration Depository, or CRD® and is a combination of:
 - o information FINRA and/or the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) require brokers and brokerage firms to submit as part of the registration and licensing process, and
 - o information that regulators report regarding disciplinary actions or allegations against firms or brokers.

- How current is this information?

- Generally, active brokerage firms and brokers are required to update their professional and disciplinary information in CRD within 30 days. Under most circumstances, information reported by brokerage firms, brokers and regulators is available in BrokerCheck the next business day.

- What if I want to check the background of an investment adviser firm or investment adviser representative?

- To check the background of an investment adviser firm or representative, you can search for the firm or individual in BrokerCheck. If your search is successful, click on the link provided to view the available licensing and registration information in the SEC's Investment Adviser Public Disclosure (IAPD) website at <https://www.adviserinfo.sec.gov>. In the alternative, you may search the IAPD website directly or contact your state securities regulator at <http://www.finra.org/Investors/ToolsCalculators/BrokerCheck/P455414>.

- Are there other resources I can use to check the background of investment professionals?

- FINRA recommends that you learn as much as possible about an investment professional before deciding to work with them. Your state securities regulator can help you research brokers and investment adviser representatives doing business in your state.

Regulatory Action Initiated By: FINRA

Date Initiated: 07/02/2026

Docket/Case Number: 2024084471901

Employing firm when activity occurred which led to the regulatory action: NYLife Securities LLC

Product Type: Insurance

Allegations: Without admitting or denying the findings, Tran consented to the sanctions and to the entry of findings that she falsified documents and information relating to a customer's life insurance policy and commingled customer funds with her own. The findings stated that Tran altered the address associated with the insurance policy in the insurance company's system from the customer's address to Tran's residential address. Tran believed the customer, who she had a personal friendship with and was infrequently in the United States, had concerns that mail relating to the insurance policy was being intercepted and that the address change was consistent with the customer's intent. The customer, while residing abroad, obtained loans totaling $14,790 taken against the life insurance policy's cash value. Tran falsified the loan checks by making them payable to her father, who then signed the checks, and deposited the proceeds into a bank account she jointly owned with her father. Tran subsequently transferred portions of the funds to her personal bank account. Tran believed she was authorized to take these actions to safeguard the funds pending their return to the customer, but she did not confirm this understanding with the customer. Following a complaint by the customer, the insurance company reversed the loans.
