BrokerCheck reports for brokerage firms include information on a firm's profile, history, and operations, as well as many of the same disclosure events mentioned above.
- Please note that the information contained in a BrokerCheck report may include pending actions or allegations that may be contested, unresolved or unproven. In the end, these actions or allegations may be resolved in favor of the broker or brokerage firm, or concluded through a negotiated settlement with no admission or finding of wrongdoing.

- Where did this information come from?

- The information contained in BrokerCheck comes from FINRA's Central Registration Depository, or CRD® and is a combination of:
 - o information FINRA and/or the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) require brokers and brokerage firms to submit as part of the registration and licensing process, and
 - o information that regulators report regarding disciplinary actions or allegations against firms or brokers.

- How current is this information?

- Generally, active brokerage firms and brokers are required to update their professional and disciplinary information in CRD within 30 days. Under most circumstances, information reported by brokerage firms, brokers and regulators is available in BrokerCheck the next business day.

- What if I want to check the background of an investment adviser firm or investment adviser representative?

- To check the background of an investment adviser firm or representative, you can search for the firm or individual in BrokerCheck. If your search is successful, click on the link provided to view the available licensing and registration information in the SEC's Investment Adviser Public Disclosure (IAPD) website at <https://www.adviserinfo.sec.gov>. In the alternative, you may search the IAPD website directly or contact your state securities regulator at <http://www.finra.org/Investors/ToolsCalculators/BrokerCheck/P455414>.

- Are there other resources I can use to check the background of investment professionals?

- FINRA recommends that you learn as much as possible about an investment professional before deciding to work with them. Your state securities regulator can help you research brokers and investment adviser representatives doing business in your state.

Disclosure 1 of 1

Reporting Source: Regulator

Regulatory Action Initiated By: FINRA

Sanction(s) Sought:

Date Initiated: 11/20/2015

Docket/Case Number: 2014039707402

Employing firm when activity occurred which led to the regulatory action: Waddell & Reed, Inc.

Product Type: No Product

Allegations: Without admitting or denying the findings, Holzhausen consented to the sanction and to the entry of findings that he signed and distributed to a third party a misleading letter on his member firm's letterhead purporting to confirm a client's financial ability to purchase a multi-million dollar home. The findings stated that the letter was misleading because, the client was not a client of the firm, the client never executed any transaction through the firm and an account was never opened for the client at the firm. Also, the client held no funds or securities at the firm and Holzhausen had not reviewed any account statements, tax returns, or other financial documents to validate the veracity of the client's claimed wealth. Holzhausen's basis for the statement in the verification letter was based solely on the client's unverified oral representations. The findings also stated that Holzhausen failed to provide written disclosure to, or obtain approval from the firm before engaging in an outside consulting activity through his outside consulting business. Holzhausen served as the chief executive officer and president of the outside consulting business when this outside business issued an invoice to the client requesting a total of $40,000 for services performed by Holzhausen and another registered representative associated with the outside business. The findings also included that Holzhausen used a personal email account to conduct firm-related business, thereby causing his firm to fail to comply with its recordkeeping obligations. Holzhausen used his personal, web-based email account to request that the client provide brokerage account statements to the firm as a prerequisite for opening an account at the firm. FINRA found that Holzhausen failed to appear and provide on-the-record testimony requested by FINRA.
